

GOVERNOR OF TEXAS GIVES HIS VIEW POINT

HAS NO INTENTION OF ORDERING STATE TROOPS ACROSS BORDER

Colquitt Asserts That as Federal Troops Have Failed to Give Protection to Texans, That He Called Out State Militia—Gets Little Satisfaction From Washington.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 27.—In a lengthy statement tonight, Governor C. B. Colquitt of Texas, emphatically declares it is not and never has been his intention to order permit Texas troops to cross the border into Mexico.

"There seems to be a deliberate attempt at Washington," the statement says, "in dealing with the Mexican border question insofar as matters presented by me are concerned to make me appear ridiculous before the people of the country."

The governor refers to a despatch from Washington saying he threatened to send rangers into Mexico and declares it untrue.

In 1912 the governor says, he did send a telegram to president asking him to prevent Mexican revolutionists and federal soldiers at Juarez from shooting into El Paso, Texas, endangering the lives of the Texas people.

Sent State Troops to El Paso. "And in that despatch," says the governor, "I stated that if the federal government did not take steps to protect the Texas people I would, and I gave orders to my adjutant general to be ready to proceed with state troops to El Paso for that purpose. I knew I had no authority to invade Mexico and was not so foolish as to make any such threat."

In Feb. 1913, the governor says, Mexican troops made threats against Americans in Matamoros, Mexico, and Brownsville, Texas. He communicated with General Steever at Fort Sam Houston, the governor says, and asked that United States troops be sent to Brownsville. The general telephoned him, the governor states that he had asked for instructions from Washington but had received none.

"I then called the adjutant general of the state of Texas to my office," the statements continue, "and directed that two cavalry and two infantry companies of the Texas National guard be sent to Brownsville by special train for determination being to defend and protect the people of this state whom I considered the nation government to be neglecting."

Were Sent to Defend Texans. "It was never my intention to order or permit the Texas troops to go beyond the border but they were instructed to the full extent of their ability to take care of Texas people whom they had been sent to defend."

Of efforts to enforce neutrality laws, the governor says: "I have endeavored in every way to co-operate with the federal government in enforcing neutrality laws."

"Under the treaty between the United States and Mexico border states may surrender fugitives from justice without going through the formality of presenting their appeals through the state department, either of the United States or Mexico."

"I am endeavoring to get the United States government to advise whom they regard as constitutional authority in Mexico so I may present my requisitions to that constituted authority for the surrender of murderers of Texas citizens. It does not appear that the United States government recognizes either the Huertista government so-called, or the Carranza government so-called. There seems to be no government in Mexico recognized by the United States."

"I have no purpose of being sensational nor do I desire to be unjust, but as governor of Texas I believe the questions which I have presented should be dealt with fairly and squarely and if there is a government in Mexico, recognized by the United States, and if a border state having many proper matters in the line of my duty in the enforcement of the laws of this state, to present to such government, I feel I should know who constitutes that government in order to proceed intelligently."

Many Perplexing Questions. "Texas has nearly eight hundred miles of frontier along the Rio Grande from El Paso to Brownsville to police and protect. There are perhaps 25,000 Mexican refugees living in the cities and towns near the border who have fled to this state to save the lives of themselves and families from the ravages, murder, pillage and outrage which has been going on in the northern states of Mexico to a greater or lesser degree for the last three and a half years. Many perplexing questions are presented to me almost daily as a result of this condition—questions which cannot be determined by our federal government but must be handled by the state government of Texas."

The border Mexican states for the most part are in the hands of the revolutionists and it is a matter of great importance to this state to know how to enforce its rights against transgressors who come across the Rio Grande and commit crime."

What Intervention Would Mean. Washington, Feb. 27.—What American intervention in Mexico would mean was discussed by former President Taft here tonight in an address before the National Geographical society, with a word of solemn warning to those who advocated such a step.

The former president said: "The situation is in such a condition that it will be improper for me to comment on it, except to say this: those who would lightly look forward to intervention are either utterly regardless of the loss of life and the expenditure of immense treasure, or else they don't know what armed intervention in Mexico will mean."

"Those of us who have had experience in the tranquilizing of a tropical country with a people not very different from the Mexicans, who take naturally to guerrilla warfare and who would rather fight than work, that is, would rather fight and run than work, know the difficulties an army would have to meet to accomplish the only purpose that we would have in going in, to wit: the bringing about of law and order."

"It would involve the garrisoning with a sufficient force of every town. It would involve the organization of columns to chase the guerrillas into their mountain fastnesses and across trackless desert plains and the subjection of 15,000,000 people. No effort ought to be made to prevent a catastrophe like this."

Report Expresses Belief in Bible as Word of God and in Second Coming of Christ.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—A belief in the second coming of Christ is one of the professions in a new expression of faith issued tonight at the close of the fiftieth international phyletic bible conference.

The report expresses the belief in the bible as the word of God; in the deity of Christ; in his virgin birth and in salvation by divine sacrifice.

GRAFT INVESTIGATOR DISPROVES CHARGE MADE AGAINST HIM

Evidence Shows that John A. Hennessy Did Not Receive Money From Asphalt Company.

New York, Feb. 27.—John A. Hennessy, graft investigator for former Governor William Sulzer, produced documentary evidence today to disprove a charge against him by Henry A. Rubin, a lawyer.

Quinlan, attorney for the Warner Asphalt company had charged Hennessy and Sulzer were in league with the state highway department to favor certain asphalt companies in state highway contracts.

Yesterday Rubin withdrew all charges except one that Hennessy had received $2,500 from the Barber Asphalt company interests.

Hennessy took the stand for cross examination by Rubin today and produced checks, letters and bank books to show that the money was contributed to George H. McGuire of Syracuse and that it was used to investigate grafting contractors and was not contributed by the Barber company.

MOTOR CAR WHIRLS THROUGH STREET WITH DEAD MAN AT WHEEL

GILROY, Cal., Feb. 27.—Stricken with heart failure at the wheel of his motor car, Orrin Jacobs, a retired capitalist, was whirled through a crowded street here today until the uncontrolled car crashed into a tree and pitched him to the pavement dead.

It is believed that it will be improper for me to comment on it, except to say this: those who would lightly look forward to intervention are either utterly regardless of the loss of life and the expenditure of immense treasure, or else they don't know what armed intervention in Mexico will mean."

ISSUES STATEMENT CONCERNING FUND DERIVED FROM SOUVENIRS

Mrs. Potter Palmer Announces Fund Is Available at Any Time to Be Used in Work for Which It Was Raised.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—The whereabouts of funds derived from the sale of souvenirs during the World's Fair in 1893, about which there has been much speculation here, was definitely established tonight by Mrs. Potter Palmer, president of the board of lady managers of the World's Columbian Exposition.

The money which amounted to $36,000 at the end of the fair was invested in securities and placed in a safe deposit box here. The fund has grown through interest until it amounts today to $67,750.11. This fund is available at any time, Mrs. Palmer said, to be consolidated with funds from the sale of Isabella coins and to be used in the work for which it was raised, the permanent betterment of women and children.

The question of the disposition of the sum of the World's fair funds arose recently while Mrs. Palmer was in Florida.

When word of the public discussion reached her she returned here, determined the exact balance on hand and issued the final statement tonight.

MEMBERS OF ELGIN BOARD OF TRADE ANXIOUS TO MAKE PEACE

Charged With Arbitrarily Fixing Prices They Desire Agreement by Which Prosecution May Be Avoided.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Members of the Elgin Board of Trade, who have been charged with arbitrarily fixing prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, are anxious to make their peace with the government.

District Attorney James H. Wilkerson admitted today he has had several conferences with counsel for the board at their request and that a compromise of the case was possible.

"The members of the board are very anxious to make their peace," said Mr. Wilkerson. "I have conferred with the attorneys who desire that some arrangement be reached by which prosecution may be avoided."

After an investigation completed about two years ago Mr. Wilkerson filed a petition in the federal court charging that the methods of the board in procuring prices for dairy products, were in restraint of trade. He charged that the quotation committee of the board met every Monday and arbitrarily fixed prices without any regard for actual sales. He also instituted similar proceedings against the Chicago Butter & Egg Board, a decision on which is being prepared by Judge Landis.

The quotation committee of the Elgin board was called into existence when Mr. Wilkerson says, the same arbitrary arrangement of prices has existed. It is declared that members of the board have met on Monday and gone through an alleged system of sales by which the prices were named. It is further asserted the sales have been fictitious. This arrangement has been the subject of investigation by the federal grand jury during the last week, Mr. Wilkerson admitted.

The original petition will be argued Tuesday before Judge Landis unless a compromise is reached in the meantime.

INVESTIGATE RELATIONS OF PENN. AND N. & W. RAILROADS

Department of Justice Officials Believe Two Roads Are Competitive.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The department of justice it became known tonight has been looking into the relations between the Pennsylvania railroad company and the Norfolk & Western with the idea of effecting a separation of the two roads or bringing suit under the Sherman anti-trust act.

In the opinion of department officials the two roads are competitive. The Pennsylvania owned on January 1st, 1913, $11,762,900 common and $11,320,000 preferred Norfolk & Western stock. On October 31st, 1912, the outstanding stock of the Norfolk & Western was given as $129,312,400.

While a suit to sever the connection between the two roads would be brought to dissolve an alleged combination in restraint of trade it was said tonight a successful suit might directly effect rates on bituminous coal from the West Virginia and Pennsylvania fields to New York and other eastern communities.

ATTORNEYS WANT SIMPLER FORM OF PROCEDURE IN ALL COURTS

Former President Taft Makes Appeal To Facilitate the Administration of Justice.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27.—An appeal for simplification of court procedure to facilitate the administration of justice was made to the house judiciary committee today by a delegation of noted lawyers, headed by former President Taft. Speaking as president of the Bar Association, Mr. Taft said lawyers of the United States were practically a unit in believing simple rules of practice should govern in all courts, federal and state and he strongly urged passage of a pending bill introduced by Representative Clayton, chairman of the committee. Mr. Taft said to the committee that there was nothing in the constitution to prevent administration of justice in the United States with the same despatch that marked English court business.

Referring to the investigations of several federal judges now in progress, Mr. Taft declared it was a wholesome thing for congress to exercise this power.

"I think it is an admirable thing," he said, "for these judges to understand that they are being watched."

The story of the alleged attempt to produce false testimony was told by Proko Buraka, a Slav miner who came to the Colorado coal fields from Pittsburgh in one of the shipments of the strike-breakers which have been the occasion of much conflicting testimony on the subject of alleged peonage. Arms were distributed among the strikers at the Ludlow tent colony on the night of October 27th, by Louis Tikas—"Louie the Greek"—Robert Ulich and others, according to the testimony of Jesse Shaw, a former striker.

Shaw said "Mother" Jones at a meeting of local union officials, told the men that in West Virginia the strikers bought all the guns they could and "went out after the Baldwin-Felts guards."

WIFE RESCUES HUSBAND FROM AUTO GAS FUMES

Arthur L. Sprinkle, Son-in-law of W. T. Deere of Franklin Overcome By Poison Gas Exhaust, at Home in Evanston.

Relatives have received word of the narrow escape Arthur L. Sprinkle had last Sunday from automobile gas fumes. He married Miss Theodosia Deere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Deere of the Franklin neighborhood. The Evanston Daily News in speaking the accident says:

"Arthur L. Sprinkle, an attorney, residing at 2033 Sherman avenue, had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation of poisonous gases from his automobile Sunday afternoon, when he was found unconscious by his wife in the garage at his home. Realizing the imminent danger of asphyxiation, she dragged him from the fume-filled garage, called her neighbors to help carry him to the house and then summoned the family physician. He was revived after being unconscious for almost a half hour, but suffered ill effects of the poisonous gases until yesterday."

Was Recharging Batteries. The experience of Mr. Sprinkle is a warning to all owners of automobiles who look after the upkeep of their machines. He was recharging the batteries which supply current for the electric lights on his auto, and in order to do this was forced to run the engine for an hour or more.

Because of the extreme cold weather Sunday, the doors on the small garage were closed tight and no means of ventilation provided. With the rich mixture of gases pouring from the exhaust pipe steadily, the room was soon filled with the poisonous vapor.

Wife Rescues Husband. After Mr. Sprinkle had been away from the house for an hour, Mrs. Sprinkle decided to go to the garage and determine why he was so long at the battery recharging task. She entered the garage and Mr. Sprinkle assured her that he would be with her in a few minutes. In another moment he toppled over on the floor of the garage unconscious.

Instead of waiting for help, Mrs. Sprinkle bravely faced the situation and dragged her husband from the building. When he failed to regain consciousness in the below-zero atmosphere with his limp body stretched out on the snow-covered ground, Mrs. Sprinkle called for help. Her cries attracted neighbors who quickly responded and the stricken man was carried into the home.

DRAINAGE BOARD MAY HAVE TO APPEAL TO CONGRESS

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—That the sanitary district should appeal to congress instead of the federal court for permission to take more water from Lake Michigan is the contention of District Attorney Wilkerson in a motion to be filed tomorrow. Mr. Wilkerson said he hoped the entire case would be ruled out of court as incompetent and the drainage board will be compelled to go to congress for relief.

8 o'clock—First championship game.
9 o'clock—Championship game.

Enthusiasm and interest has risen to the highest pitch in the basketball tournament which ended its second day's strenuous program last night. Today will witness one of the hardest struggles for the championship honors ever witnessed at a tournament in Jacksonville. When the curtain went down last night the teams although tired from the big day were laying plans to redouble their energies in the last lap. Jacksonville is still in the running, although defeated in an exciting game last night by two points at the hands of Canton. The J. H. S. men will have a chance to come back this afternoon at 1 o'clock when they play the loser of the game between Granite City and the winner of game between Springfield and Quincy.

Bunker Hill Shows Up.
One of the surprises yesterday was the appearance on the scene of battle of the Bunker Hill Military Academy quintet. There was no little consternation among the management of the tournament when they showed up. It took a conference lasting nearly two hours to determine whether they would be allowed to enter. Principal Collins showed proof sufficient that Vice-President Newell of Decatur had O. K'd the Jacksonville list and Bunker Hill was not on it. At 1 o'clock Wednesday Principal Collins received a message from Bunker Hill saying that they were going somewhere else. The fact that Bunker Hill had not presented an eligibility list also tended to further complicate matters. It was finally threshed out that the Bunker Hill which was not intended to come here was the Bunker Hill high school and not the Bunker Hill Military academy. Fortunate the schedule was in such a shape that Quincy was without a mate and the management of that school agreed to take Bunker Hill on. The matter was voted on and all agreed to let Bunker Hill enter except three who voted "no".

Elimination of Teams.
Through the elimination process Virginia, Ipava, Bluffs, Bunker Hill were out yesterday. The program for today is a pretty stiff proposition to all teams and the squad with the greatest endurance will without doubt play a big part in winning the tournament.

Winner a Question.
Jacksonville has a fighting chance; Pittsfield looks up strong for the honors, Springfield will give the best of them a run, while following close in the wake of these are Canton and Granite City. While their was considerable gossip last night over picking a championship team there was no one who would dare to name the five. Springfield will have a strenuous time this morning and if she wins the two first games scheduled will have to turn around at 1 o'clock and play again. Pittsfield's victory over Springfield was one of the surprises of the day's program and this gave rise to the fact that Pittsfield has a good chance of winning the meet.

Seats at a Premium.
Seats were at premium last night and many found places in the balcony. There were 217 single admission tickets sold last night and the gate receipts for the day were close to $125.00. Arrangements are being made to make room for 150 more seats today and it is expected that the attendance will go far beyond any figure yet set.

Principal Collins Entertains.
The girls of the domestic science department who served refreshments enjoyed a good trade yesterday and their receipts were satisfactory. Principal Collins, had as his guests the visiting superintendents, principals and coaches at dinner in the hall Friday and a splendid meal had been prepared by the domestic science department. The dinner was followed by a business session which lasted until the games started in the afternoon. A most commendable thing about the meet is the absence of rowdism and uncomplimentary remarks and the two days have passed off in good shape.

Pittsfield, 47; Virginia, 28.
The first game of the second day's program of the tournament was between Pittsfield and Virginia, the former winning by a score of 47 to 28. At no time of the game was Pittsfield in danger and during the last half they gradually took the lead of their opponents.

Jacksonville, 29; Mt. Sterling, 14.
Local fans who did not arrive in time for the first game were on hand at 9 o'clock to see the contest between Jacksonville and Mt. Sterling. The contest was expected to be closer than it was, but the J. H. S. men put up such a good exhibition that some of the second string men were run in. Mt. Sterling put up a plucky exhibition, but the speed of the local five was too great for them. The Pyatts and Smith played their usual strong game.

Pittsfield, 23; Springfield, 17.
One of the scrappiest games of the tournament thus far was between Springfield and Pittsfield. The fans were about equally divided in cheering for the winner and as the contest progressed it looked doubtful if the victor could be picked until the last basket was thrown. About the middle of the last half Springfield took a brace but it did not last long and they could not overcome the few points of their leader. The game at the end of the first half was 11 to 7 in favor of Pittsfield. The victory was the occasion of a great ovation given the team by the Pittsfield admirers.

Bunker Hill has been used to playing on a small floor and the big floor here seemed to bewilder them. They were going in every direction in trying to keep tab on the passing of the Quincy boys. The game was most interesting of all played during the day on account of the one-sidedness.

A. B. McKINNEY RANKS AS

SUCCESSFUL STOCK FEEDER

Records Kept of Two Months' Hog Feeding. Snow Benefits of Combining Corn and Tankage.

A. B. McKinney, who lives on his farm in the vicinity of Lynnville, is one of the successful stock feeders of the county. For a good many years Mr. McKinney devoted his attention to cattle feeding, but in recent years on account of the shifting and uncertain market for cattle he has figured that hogs are more profitable and has devoted his time to this class of stock.

Recently Mr. McKinney finished and marketed 95 hogs of his own raising. They topped the market at $8.60 in St. Louis and the shrinkage on the whole lot between the weights at the farm and in St. Louis was only 470 pounds. Mr. McKinney usually markets his stock in St. Louis and goes with it to market. During the 60 days he was feeding the hogs for marketing, Mr. McKinney attended to the work himself and kept an accurate account of the exact amount of feed given and the increase shown. The record is of interest because it indicates the value of feeding both corn and tankage and from the added fact that it gives some idea of what a feeder can do with high priced corn.

Eighty-Two Cents For Corn. All of the hogs were raised on the farm and at the beginning of the 60 days the average weight was 183 pounds. The average gain was 81 pounds, the hogs weighing on the market an average of 264. They were about 9 months old when the special feeding was begun and so were about 11 months old when they reached the market. The hogs ate 750 bushels of corn which cost 68c a bushel and they also ate $40 worth of tankage. Figuring in all costs Mr. McKinney received in returns 82c a bushel for his corn.

In talking about his feeding yesterday, Mr. McKinney said, "There is nothing very remarkable about the feeding that I have done, it is interesting to me as supporting the argument that I have continually made that it would pay to feed tankage to hogs. A great many people have said that the corn the past season was such poor quality that it would not make fat, but the returns from my hogs show conclusively, to my mind at least, that even poor quality corn, if tankage is also used, will bring to pass the right results. I believe in a tankage 60 per cent protein. I fed it to my hogs dry at the rate of half a bushel a day to begin with and later increased this ration to a bushel a day.

"No set rules can be laid down for the amount of tankage which should be fed to hogs, as the man who has charge of the stock is the only one who can tell for a certainty just how much the animals require. One thing that I believe is especially important to the growth of stock is to have plenty of pure fresh water and I think that good results cannot be obtained, unless attention is given to this matter. If you will watch a hog when it is eating corn you will notice that the animal will stop eating every little while to go and take a drink if there is water somewhere near at hand. Fresh water is almost as important as the food itself. From the records I kept it is shown that one bushel of corn, with a small per cent of tankage produced, between 10 and 11 pounds of pork."

LITERARY ACTIVITIES

AT WHIPPLE ACADEMY

March 10, has been selected as the date for the Whipple academy debating try-out to pick a team for the contest with the academy of James Millikin university, April 2. The debate will take place at Decatur and the question discussed will be "Resolved, that Illinois should adopt a law providing for the initiative and referendum." Two men will be chosen to represent Whipple from among the six who have made entry for the preliminary.

Eight of the young women students of the academy are working up declamations with a view to representing the school against Millikin the same night as the debate. Two representatives will be chosen from the eight who have entered. Both declaimers and debaters are hard at work as they are determined to improve upon the record of last year when Millikin won the debate and received both first and second award in the declamatory contest.

ILLINOIS WON

SPIRITED CONTEST

DEFEATED WESLEYAN LAST NIGHT BY SCORE OF 29 TO 27.

Game One of the Most Desperate Ever Seen on the Local Floor—Local Players Kept Rooters in State of Frenzied Enthusiasm—Perfect Team Work Responsible For Victory.

Illinois defeated Wesleyan last night in the Illinois gymnasium, by a score of 29 to 27, the closest and most desperately played game seen upon the local floor in a long time. From the time the referee first put the ball in play until the timekeeper's whistle announced the end of the game, there was not a moment of lagging interest. The Illinois rooters were kept in a frenzied state throughout the contest. Time after time they were brought to their feet by the brilliant work of the blue and white players. Wesleyan proved to be a worthy foe and the fact that that team played fast, snappy basket ball adds all the more to the laurels of the Illinois five. Wesleyan was somewhat crippled by the absence of Young, one of their regular forwards, and the very close guarding done by the Illinois guards, it is doubtful whether his presence would have changed the result. Captain Elliott proved to be the star of the Wesleyan team. He is a whirlwind when it comes to moving about the floor. His unerring aim on free throws netted nearly one-half the points scored by the visitors. Rust at guard played a strong game, but in spite of his vigilance Capt. Gary succeeded in slipping in two field goals. Hart at center was always a dangerous man because of his height and jumping ability. There were no stars on the Illinois five. No one man stood out prominently above the others. Every man on the team played fast basket ball from start to finish. Atchison started the scoring before the game was under way three minutes when he threw a goal following a foul committed by a Wesleyan player. Before the game was ended every man on the Illinois team had contributed points toward the total Illinois score. Capt. Gary, in addition to playing a fast floor game, caged two field goals both of which were beautiful shots. McLaughlin, playing his first full game with the team, led his teammates in field goals with four to his credit. He played the best basket ball which he has yet shown and is steadily improving with each succeeding game. Frisbie also played good basket ball. He held Hart, his opponent, to three goals one of which was rather luckily batted into the basket, and contributed three goals to his own team's score. Atchison, at guard, played a very steady and heady game. He was pitted against Elliott and the fact that he held that fast player, who was half of the offensive strength of the Wesleyan team, to one field goal and secured one himself is evidence enough of his sterling ability. Stewart at the other guard held his opponent to two field goals and at the same time he eluded his forward opportunity to slip down the floor and send the ball swishing through the net three times.

The score at the end of the first half was a tie with sixteen points to the credit of each team. The final score, 29 to 27, does not accurately show the comparative strength of the two teams. Illinois scored 13 field goals to 7 made by Wesleyan. Out of a total of 29 points Illinois scored 26 through the field goal route and three and free throws. Wesleyan scored 13 of her 27 points on free throws. Illinois was a heavy sufferer on penalties, eighteen being imposed, principally for advancing with the ball, while Wesleyan was penalized but five times.

The Decatur Review suggests that it is a little surprising that in this day and age scarlet fever and small-pox should invade Urbana, a town where the choicest of the scientists make their homes in goodly numbers. One would suppose they never permitted an attack of ordinary plebian maladies in that town.

The state fire marshal's office has taken on a great deal of activity recently and the mails now frequently bear bulletins suggesting what can be done to lessen danger from fires. Beginning on March 11th a series of city inspection meetings will be held and practical educational work is planned by giving firemen a course in fire fighting. No doubt this work will be very beneficial for the smaller cities and possibly some good ideas can be suggested to larger ones.

TAFT POINTS TO WAR DAMAGE.

Former President Taft in an address last night before the National Geographic society sounded a note of warning which should be given special heed by those thoughtless persons who are urging speedy intervention as the proper method to bring to an end the troubles in Mexico.

He said: "Those who lightly look forward to intervention are either utterly regardless of the loss of life and the expenditures of immense treasure or else they do not know what armed intervention on the part of this government in Mexico will mean. It would involve the garrisoning with a sufficient force of every town. It would involve the organization of columns to chase the guerrillas into their mountain fastnesses and across trackless desert plains and the subjugation of 15,000,000 people. No effort ought to be omitted to prevent a catastrophe like this."

The words should have weight, coming from such a source, for President Taft is accredited by thinkers of all political creeds as having a sound judicial mind, a vision built on broad knowledge of affairs.

"THIS IS MY 41ST BIRTHDAY"

Sir John Simon, attorney-general of Great Britain, was born February 28, 1873, and is the son of a Congressional minister. His education was received at Oxford. It is less than fifteen years since he was called to the bar, from which it will be seen that his rise to the highest place in the legal profession has been very rapid. He served as one of the British counsel in the Alaskan Boundary Arbitration in 1903 and three years later was elected to parliament. In 1910 he was made solicitor-general and last November he was promoted to the great position of attorney-general with a place in the cabinet.

That Old Cost

BY WALT MASON

When paying bills I used to say: "Our statesmen do not earn their pay! The cost of living is so high, it fairly makes your uncle cry! If congressmen and senators would carry on relentless wars against the causes which combine to get our goats, both yours and mine, the poor might have a chance to thrive, and bless their stars that they're alive!" And people all agreed with me, and said they really couldn't see why statesmen do not earn a crown by cutting robber prices down. But since I've thought the matter over, at statesmen I am not so sure. I rather think I am to blame that life is an expensive shame. I blow my money every day as though I'd loads to throw away; I buy the most expensive things, from butcher's meats to napkin rings; I seldom stop to count the cost, and so the bills produce a frost. And that's the way we're all inclined; a rare thing is the frugal mind; each year we burn more shining scads, than in their lifetime spent our dads.

DR. G. H. SANFORD DIED SUDDENLY IN FLORIDA

Had Been in Eustice for a Week's Sojourn—Pneumonia Cause of Death—Remains to Arrive Sunday Night.

A dispatch received yesterday announced the death of Dr. George H. Sanford at Eustice, Florida, Thursday night, January 10th. Mr. and Mrs. Sanford started for their usual southern winter sojourn in the south, a measure which has heretofore resulted beneficially to both but this time pneumonia claimed the doctor as a victim.

Dr. Sanford was born in Madison county, Ohio, Oct. 10th, 1838. His parents were natives of New England but had lived in the west for some years. He received a good common school education and then went to Lima, Ohio, where he graduated from the high school in that place and later was a teacher. He began the study of medicine in 1861 but felt it his duty to enlist in the army for the cause of the union and accordingly in the summer of 1862 he enrolled his name in company B, First Ohio Squadron of cavalry and served faithfully till almost the end of the war, leaving when the term of his enlistment expired. He saw hard service in Kentucky, Tennessee and other parts of the south and was in many hard fought engagements and ever distinguished himself as a brave and loyal soldier. He returned from the army in 1865 and made his residence in this city but went to Ann Arbor, Michigan, where he completed his medical studies and graduated with honor. He first settled in Franklin, but in 1870 moved to Tallula where he practiced his profession over fifty years with remarkable success. He seemed a natural born physician and was making fine progress in every way when his health broke down completely as a result of army service. He rallied and tried to practice again once or twice but it was useless; his frail body would not permit it, so in the spring of 1887 he came to this city which has since been his home. Though of a somewhat retiring disposition he made many friends here and elsewhere for he was true as steel and never forgot those whom he esteemed. He was a member of Westminster church and was glad to attend services when his health would permit, though for many years he has been an almost constant sufferer but he scarcely ever complained. He was also a member of Matt Starr Post G. A. R.

He was much devoted to his family and never so happy as when doing for them and his children have reason to be proud of their father's record.

He was married July 16th, 1862, to Miss Elizabeth M. Nichols in Lima, Ohio, and their life has ever been for each other, devotion unceasing ever. He is the father of two sons, Prof. Frederick W. Sanford of the state university of Nebraska, at Lincoln, Oregon, and W. H. Sanford of Portland, Oregon. Each of these has one son.

The remains are expected here Sunday evening and the funeral will be conducted at Westminster church probably Tuesday morning or possibly Monday afternoon.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city announces a Free Lecture on Christian Science by Judge Clifford P. Smith, C. S. PLAN CHANGE IN ATHLETIC RULES.

New York Feb. 27—More than ordinary interest is manifested in the annual meeting to be held in this city tomorrow by the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America. It is expected that several important amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the association will be adopted with a view to increasing the desire for participation in competition and enthusiasm for athletics among college students.

The most important of the proposed changes is the suggestion to add a fifth place in each event in awarding the championship cup for the annual track and field meeting, scoring five for first, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth places, a total of fifteen points for each event instead of eleven points—five, three, two and one, which has been the method in vogue since 1898.

C. & A. TO HAVE PASSENGER TRAFFIC MANAGER IN ST. LOUIS

W. H. Abel, Long in Service of Road, Is Appointed to Fill Newly Created Position—Burlington Superintendent Transferred.

W. H. Abel, who becomes Assistant and Passenger Traffic Manager of the Chicago & Alton railroad at St. Louis, Mo., effective March 1st, acclaims Elizabethtown, Pa., as his birthplace.

From the standpoint of a perfect railroad education Mr. Abel is well fitted for his new duties. He entered the service of the passenger department of the Chicago & Alton railroad January 1, 1887, at Denver, Colo., and has occupied continuously since that time various positions as city passenger agent in Denver, traveling passenger agent in California, district passenger agent in the southwest, division passenger agent at Springfield, Ill., and assistant general agent at Kansas City, Mo. He has complete knowledge of the details of passenger business and in his new position will have general supervision over all passenger traffic matters in the territory south of the Ohio river and west of the Mississippi river to the Pacific coast.

The management of the Chicago & Alton railroad, realizing the growing importance of St. Louis, Mo., as the short line gateway between the east and the west and the north and the southwest, and the fact that it will only be a short time before the larger proportion of the passenger travel, between the east and the west, the north and the southwest will seek the St. Louis gateway as against all other gateways in connection with such travel, have decided to create the position of Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager and to place at St. Louis an official of the passenger department who will have absolute control of the passenger traffic originating at and passing through that gateway, and who will be empowered to act on all questions without the delay incident to referring such matters to Chicago headquarters.

Mr. Abel is an exceedingly popular and affable man and has a large circle of friends waiting to welcome him to his new home city.

Mr. R. J. McKay, who has been acting as Assistant General Passenger Agent at St. Louis, has resigned to engage in other business.

Transfer Theilhoff to LaCrosse.

W. F. Theilhoff, superintendent of the Beardstown division of the Burlington, has been transferred to the superintendency of the LaCrosse, Wis., division and will leave Sunday to take up his new duties. He will be succeeded at Beardstown by Mr. F. Cone, who has been assistant superintendent at LaCrosse. He has already arrived in Beardstown and will take charge March 1.

BAKER'S ADMIRER KENNEDY.

The story entitled "Lincoln's Friend," and referring to Col. E. D. Baker, which appeared in the Journal of Feb. 12, and a letter, was sent to Mr. Elijah R. Kennedy of New York City. Mr. Kennedy promptly replied in a letter from which the following extracts are made. Our readers will recall that Kennedy wrote the book about Baker.

The publication of my book has brought me a great many letters, some of them containing extremely interesting facts that had never been printed and therefore were not available when I was writing the book. Some of them are contained in a lecture which I occasionally deliver."

Referring to Miss Emma Jerome regarding whom the writer asked Mr. Kennedy says: "I suspect that Miss Emma Jerome is now a widow residing in Los Angeles. Miss Lucy Baker Jerome, a charming white haired lady, engaged in literary work has spent a good deal of time in recent years in New York."

These "Jerome girls," nieces of Col. Baker, have no doubt, some acquaintance in Jacksonville, and more in Winchester or Carrollton.

Mr. Kennedy was a native of Hartford, Conn., taken to Milwaukee, Wis., by the time he was three years old, and went to California in 1859. From there he returned to the East and has been in business in New York City for many years past. Mr. Kennedy says: "A nephew of Col. Baker lives in Barry, Pike county, in your state."

This Baker is connected by marriage with Mrs. A. L. Adams of Jacksonville. Mr. Kennedy says: "I have organized a committee in San Francisco for the purpose of raising a monumental memorial to Baker and I believe the thing will go through successfully."

It is certainly to be hoped that California may make a proper recognition of the man who did so much for her and who exemplified in himself so much of what is best in American citizenship, official position and statesmanly patriotism.

It would be interesting to have Mr. Kennedy lecture here.

At the Car Shops.

The roundhouse has only one engine in it now and looks quite deserted where there were several. The east side has lots of tenders in it and they belong to the engines in the machine shop.

Engines 6, 51 and 65 all were hustled out to help work the stalled train out of the snow and all did good work.

Otto Wagner of Chicago Heights and formerly of this place, has been employed as boiler maker.

Charley Pires with his helpers, Lawrence Quinlan and Dan Mahoney worked all Thursday night getting engine 51 into shape to go out and she went.

Frank Doolin, blacksmith helper, has returned from Shipman where he went to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law.

Work is progressing well on combination motor car 102 and in time it will be turned out, a mate to 101 which was fine.

One passenger coach in the recent accident with the horses only had a step demoralized and it was soon put in shape. The other has not yet been raised and brought in.

William Yeck has been employed in the machine shop.

A pure, healthful, Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

When buying an article of food you are entitled to know exactly what you are buying—its quality and ingredients.

If this information is refused don't buy it.

Some of the low grade baking powders are advertised, but the ingredients of the powders are scrupulously concealed.

A housekeeper would not use a baking powder containing alum if she knew it.

It is well when buying to examine the label on the can. Unless it shows the ingredient cream of tartar, don't buy it.

Dr. Price's baking powder is absolutely free from alum.

OLD TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a table-spoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The Best Cough Medicine.

"We have been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past month and consider it an indispensable. Its effect is almost instantaneous, and there is no use of talking. It is a dead shot on a cough or cold. We do not say this for pay but because we consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best made, and want the people to know it and use it."—Columbus Safeguard, Columbus Junction, Iowa. The above editorial appeared in the Columbus Safeguard almost forty years ago. At that time the sale and use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was confined to a few counties in Iowa. It now enjoys a world wide reputation and many thousands have testified to its excellence. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Jacksonville Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undeniably the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

John Minter, 423 South East street, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know them to be worthy of praise. I have been telling of my experience with this remedy for many years. I took Doan's Kidney Pills for pain in my back and other symptoms of kidney trouble and found them effective. I always advise the use of this remedy, when I have an opportunity."

The Best of All Laxatives.

When the proper dose is taken the effect of Chamberlain's Tablets is so natural that you do not realize that it has been produced by a medicine. Mrs. F. J. Braun, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "Last fall I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets and have never seen their equal for constipation." Sold by all dealers.—Adv.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR GAS

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in Five Minutes You'll Wonder What Became of Misery in Stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into a mass of gas, head dizzy and aching, belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach does not take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Do You Relish Your Meals?

Your food does but little good when you have no desire for it. Take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after dinner. It will enable your stomach to digest food naturally. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Cookery Points

Way to Cook Steak.

The men of the family are sure to declare in favor of beefsteak when asked what they would like for dinner. This popularity never seems to wane, and the average man if served with steak and potatoes will leave the table carrying with him the impression of a good dinner. The choice cuts of steak are often expensive, so the clever cook has discovered a way of cooking ordinary cuts that makes them the equal or even the superior of the expensive meats. A dinner menu with steak is:

Cream of Pea Soup.
Swiss Steak With Tomato Sauce.
Hashed Browned Potatoes.
Cucumber Salad.
Apple Pie. Coffee.

Any favorite soup may be used for the first course if cream of pea is not desired.

Take an ordinary round steak cut at least an inch thick. Place it on a board and sprinkle it well with flour. Pound this flour into the steak with the edge of a plate or a regular meat pounder and when all the flour is absorbed turn the steak and treat the other side in the same fashion. Then turn to the first side again, alternating until it will take no more flour. Since quickly on each side in an iron frying pan with hot butter. Take from the fire and pour over the meat enough water to half fill the pan. Slice two tomatoes and an onion, if desired, into the pan, cover and allow to simmer very gently for three hours, replenishing the water from time to time. Season an hour before taking from the fire. When tender there will be a rich brown gravy flavored with tomato. Serve on platter with the gravy poured over the steak.

Cooking Bananas.

In Hawaii the banana is a favorite article of food, not only as a delicacy, but as an actual food commodity. The natives of the island have dozens of disguises for the fruit, and visitors agree that the American knows little of the possibilities of the long golden tube with its fragrant fruit filling. It is fried, baked and stewed in Hawaii, but there is a way in which it appears at dessert which is worthy of imitation by the American.

For banana pudding slice six bananas, ripe ones preferred, and stew them with very little water. Beat to a pulp when done, add four table-spoonfuls of sugar and turn them into a baking dish. Rub a table-spoonful of butter and one of flour, smooth and mix with a half pint of coconut milk. Place on the stove and stir until boiling. Remove from the stove and when cool add the yolks of three eggs. Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth, stir in the custard slowly, add four table-spoonfuls of powdered sugar and a quarter of a grated nutmeg. Pour over the bananas and bake in a moderate oven for a half hour.

Maple Fondant.

A delicious maple fondant is made as follows: Boil together three cupfuls of maple syrup, two of cane sugar and half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar until it forms a thread an inch long when dripped from a spoon. Pour it into a buttered pan and let it stand for twenty minutes. Then beat it with a fork until it thickens. Turn the mass out upon a large buttered platter and form it into balls or cut it into squares when it has cooled. If not too stiff it can be treated like an ordinary fondant, but it is delicious however it is treated. Balls of the fondant may be dipped in melted chocolate or rolled in fresh grated coconut. A half of it pressed between two walnut halves makes a delicious bonbon.

Salt Mackerel For Sunday.

Salt mackerel is less popular than it should be because most people have not cooked the way to bring out its best points. There is a way to make it the best Sunday breakfast dish in the world: Select a good, firm mackerel. Soak it overnight in icy cold water, fresh side down. In the morning melt in the frying pan a heaping table-spoonful of butter. Put in the mackerel, fry one side, turn carefully, keeping the flesh whole. Lift out on to a hot dish and pour in the pan a pint of thick sour cream. Let it boil up well, stirring it thoroughly, and pour it over fish. The salt of the fish takes out all the sour of the cream and makes a delicious gravy. Serve with hot buttered toast.

Coffee Custard.

Put one-half cupful of good ground coffee in a little muslin bag and drop into four cups of cold milk. Let stand twenty minutes, then pour into the double boiler and leave until it reaches the boiling point. Cook five minutes, then remove the bag and pour the hot milk over four beaten eggs, and four heaping table-spoonfuls of sugar. Pour into a custard bowl and set in a pan of hot water in the oven, or, if preferred, turn back into the double boiler and cook until thickened. Strain and set aside to cool.

Halibut and Potato Cakes.

Break left over halibut into flakes, mix these flakes with mashed potatoes. Add a small piece of butter and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Form the mixture into cakes and fry in hot drippings.

Tremendous Niagara Is In Grip Of Winter's Ruler, the Ice King

Mighty Niagara, greatest of American falls, is again in the grip of the ice king. The greater part of the cataracts is frozen, and the ice bridge below the falls has been formed. This picture shows one of the famous ice bridges of former winters when the whirling, seething water below the falls was frozen over so solidly that people had no hesitancy in walking across.

FEDS HAVE WORKING AGREEMENT WITH AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Kansas City and Indianapolis Teams Arrange Playing Schedules So as Not to Conflict.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Followers of baseball believed they read between the lines of a story published here today, news that organized baseball had virtually "recognized the belligerency" of the Federal League.

The story said the Federals and the American association leaders had agreed to arrange their playing schedules so conflicts in the two towns in which they are both represented—Kansas City and Indianapolis—would be avoided.

Such an agreement would indicate that the association, one of the largest of the leagues in organized ball, had decided not to make war on the Federals but rather had concluded to enter into a working agreement.

President Chivington of the association denied any agreement existed but Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federals, declared he had talked with Joe Cantillon, the Minneapolis association owner and George Tebeau, the Kansas City owner and that both had practically promised there would be no conflicts. Neither league has prepared its schedule, the association's usual plan having been upset by the transfer of the Toledo team to Cleveland. President Somers of the Cleveland club, who owns the Toledo team, also, is opposed to having Toledo play on its new home grounds until Cleveland has opened the season there and as Cleveland begins away from home, the former "Mudhens" will not have a game on their own diamond until the season is well advanced.

The Federal League will withhold its list of players until the arrival of the ship bearing the world's tourists at New York.

Upholds National Board.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 27.—The national baseball commission today upheld the national board in deciding that Player Clyde Parks was not the property of the Ottumwa club of the Central association. Parks as a free agent signed with the St. Joe club and Ottumwa claimed that it had an informal contract with him. The national board ruled otherwise and was upheld by the commission.

Reported Slightly Improved.

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—In spite of a restless night, W. W. Naughton, president of the San Francisco Press Club and dean of Pacific Coast sporting writers, was reported slightly improved today and his physicians continued to believe that he would recover.

Elected Iowa Captain.

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 27.—A. P. Gunderson of Rolfe, Iowa, was today elected captain of the Iowa University football team, succeeding Leo Dick, resigned. Gunderson was classed as the all-western end last fall.

First of Dog Races Today.

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 27.—The first of the classic dog races of the season of 1914, the Soomom derby, from Nome to Solomon and return seventy miles over the snow, will be run tomorrow, with 150 teams entered. There is no limit to the number of dogs in a team. The record for the course is five hours, 47 minutes, 11 seconds, established last year.

FRIDAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate.

Immigration committee continued work on the Burnett bill. Refuses to agree on a day for a vote on the woman suffrage constitutional amendment.

Rejected an amendment to the postoffice bill to strip the postmaster general of power to lower rates and alter regulations of the parcel post.

Senator Nelson introduced a bill for federal license of interstate commerce corporations and proposed a plan for publicity. Adjourned at 5:55 p. m. to noon Saturday.

House.

Met at noon. Foreign affairs committee considered without action Representative Alney's Mexican resolution.

Former President Taft, Alton B. Parker and Senator Root endorsed Clayton to harmonize practices in the federal courts. Vice-president Harris of the New York Central declared the railroads would welcome federal incorporations and regulation of security issues.

Representative Dies warned against intervention in Mexico. Representative Palmer advocated his bill to bar child labor products for inter-state commerce.

Passed an omnibus pension bill carrying $43,400. Adjourned at 5:35 p. m., to noon Saturday.

None Half So Good as Chamberlain's
"I have tried a number of cough medicines for the children but never found any half so good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Alex Johnson, New Haven, Ind. "It will not only check a cough but will cure a cold or cold quicker than any other remedy we have used. The children like it and I know it cannot do them harm as it is free from opiates." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If Tongue is Coated or if Cross, Feverish, Constipated Give "California Syrup of Figs."
Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

Woman's World

The Past and Present First Lady of Empire State.

Photo of Mrs. Glynn copyright by American Press Association.

MRS. MARTIN H. GLYNN (ABOVE), MRS. WILLIAM SULZER (BELOW).

You never can tell. This time last year public attention was directed toward Mrs. William Sulzer as the wife of the Democratic candidate for governor of New York state. Today she is looked upon with pity as the helpmate of the deposed governor.

Mrs. Glynn, the present mistress of the gubernatorial mansion in Albany, was before her marriage to Martin H. Glynn thirteen years ago Miss Mary C. E. Magrane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Magrane of Lynn, Mass.

She is a woman of high intellectual attainments, interested in charitable work, a linguist, well read, well educated, but of a retiring disposition, averse to getting into the limelight which is of necessity flashed upon her husband.

Miss Jessie Wilson's Trousseau.

In the matter of a trousseau Miss Jessie Wilson reversed the order of the average bride of the period, again proving that she has a conspicuous amount of common sense. Every gown except the white satin wedding gown is said to have been selected from ready to wear stock presented by a high class specialty house. The lingerie, on the other hand, has all been made to order under the personal direction of the bride and her mother. Furthermore, most of these dainty belongings are of exquisitely fine material and hand made. To insure the old time elegance of our grandmothers as well as an excellence of construction rarely found in the modern trousseau.

The ten room house at Williamstown, Mass., where Mr. Sayre and his bride will begin their married life, will be one of the best equipped in that land of good housekeeping with a large part of the linen exquisitely initiated by the bride and her sisters.

Beyond the fact that one of Miss Wilson's bridesmaids will be her sister Eleanor, the list of attendants so far has not been confined to any one beyond the family circle.

Cuban Women Intellectual.

Cuban women are very intellectual, said a Spanish visitor to the States recently, although they haven't had that reputation. Even in the old days Cuba had its intellectual women, and we are very proud of the fact that the greatest woman in Spanish literature, Gertrudis Gomez de Avellaneda, was born there. She is regarded, in fact, as one of the world's great poets, being ranked with Sappho and Mrs. Browning. A number of statues have been erected to her memory on the island, and great preparations are now being made for the celebration of her centenary on March 23, 1914.

"One curious difference between Gertrudis de Avellaneda and the modern intellectual woman was that she was very masculine. In those days a woman had to be a man to do anything. She couldn't afford to be womanly."

Chemise Rarely Seen.

The old fashioned chemise, long treasured since its revival because of its usefulness, is rarely seen now. Fashionable women have relegated it to the background because it makes wrinkles and folds show in the new tight skirts. Instead of this garment fashion now decrees that women shall select a style of lingerie which adds not a perceptible inch to their size. To be truly smart one's dress must look as if it was being worn next the skin. A thin silk hobbie chemise, a fancy bust supporter and a pair of silk knickerbockers will accomplish this effect.

CAPT. JOHN KING'S REMINISCENCES OF WAR.

I forgot to mention one interesting incident which took place when we were camped near Metamoras. Near us were some troops from Georgia and they were placed on a steamboat to be taken somewhere on the Rio Grande river but not liking something of their treatment they mutinied and Col. Baker called out our company to put down the trouble. The boat was yet tied to the wharf and I was placed in a position covering the pilot house, with orders to shoot to kill any person who would attempt to take the boat out on the river, but I didn't have to fire.

Col. Baker went on board with some of the members of my company and in a short time the trouble was over, but not until some rascal thrust a bayonet through Col. Baker's neck out through his mouth. The fellow that did it was one of a group of mutineers and members of our company seized every one of them and tossed them into the river, where they drowned.

In the City of Mexico was the third regiment of dragoons and Capt. Dupern offered me a lieutenantancy in one of the companies, but I declined, as the war was about over and Capt. Allen wanted me to stay with him.

President Lincoln, then a congressman from our district, secured me an appointment as cadet at West Point, but I was just beyond the age limit and unable to accept.

Captain Allen wanted me to go to Washington with him, but I wanted first to visit my home in Illinois, which I did, and then went to Washington and afterward visited friends in Pittsburg. Captain Allen wrote me he was going to California and asked me to go too and in 1850 I crossed the plains for the Golden state. My grandmother told me if I visited San Francisco to be sure and call on Col. Collins, collector of the port, which I did. He offered me a good position, but I declined, as I chose to be with Captain Allen.

I served for years in various places on the Pacific coast till the beginning of the civil war, when I left my home in Whetcom, near Bellingham, Washington, for Washington City, but on reaching Cascade I met Col. Bobbitt, U. S. quartermaster, and he said I was just the man he wanted, as he was overburdened with work. I was reluctant to accept, but he urged me and I remained with him the rest of the year.

When my brother, David, with another brother, collected the largest company raised in Sangamon county and went to Springfield to extend congratulations to Mr. Lincoln on his nomination, Mr. Mr. Lincoln looking at them, said, "Neither of you is John" and asked, "Where is he?"

On being told that I was on N. W. boundary survey he said, "White to John and tell him of my nomination and I expect to be elected and if elected, if I can do anything for him, to write and let me know."

Then turned to David, said, but not seriously, "David, I will have to make you my secretary of war." He met David during the war on a street in Washington and said, "David, I did not make you secretary of war; don't you think I made a better selection?"

Mr. Lincoln had a remarkably wonderful memory.

Including myself, among the grandsons of Samuel and Rebecca Denstoven, who was a sister of General Campbell of the Revolutionary war, four other grandsons were in the military service during the civil war and another (the youngest) grandson tried to enlist, but was rejected on account of his stature and youth. Three other grandsons served in the civil war in civil occupations. Grandmother's family, after the Revolutionary war, cared for Mollie Pitcher in her declining years.

I finally left Col. Bobbitt and proceeded to Washington, for there was fighting going on and I very much desired to take a place in the army and hoped I would be able to accomplish it, as I had influential friends and President Lincoln knew me also.

I reached Washington in January, 1862; was accompanied to the white house by Senator McDougal and Gen. Stevenson; saw the president, and said I came to secure an appointment. Gen. Stevenson told the president he would like to have me as his quartermaster. I said to the president I preferred to be captain of cavalry. The president then said, "General Stevenson go with John to the adjutant general (L. Thomas), and see if such a vacancy exists and to let him know." We saw the adjutant general, but found no such vacancy. I then suggested to the president that if I could see Mr. Stanton, secretary of war, (long a friend of our family) I might have it arranged so as to get into the cavalry. The president gave me a letter addressed to Mr. Stanton, secretary of war. On the corner of the envelope he wrote, "Please see Mr. King," and signed it A. Lincoln. For three days I tried to see Mr. Stanton, but got no audience.

My ambition being thwarted, the president directed Gen. Stevenson to find any vacancy suitable for me. I went to the adjutant general with Gen. Stevenson and Senator McDougal and on the way Gen. Stevenson suggested that I accept any vacancy found in the infantry and then after that the president would give me a staff appointment. A lieutenantancy in the 11th U. S. Infy. was found, the president notified, and I told him that my name would, by agreement made with the adjutant general, be sent to the senate for confirmation. I then notified the president that I would prefer a staff appointment to serving in the line. I was then nominated by the president as Capt. Com. Sub.

Allow me to state that the letter to the secretary of war, with other material letters and all of my retained papers were consumed when my brother's house was completely destroyed by fire. When I met the adjutant general, accompanied by Senator McDougal and Gen. Stevenson, he was very courteous in manner.

After waiting some three weeks or more, not hearing anything about my appointment and anxious to get into service, I called on the adjutant general, and passing through the general's office, was shown into his private office, where he stood alone, back to fire or grate. I saluted him and in as gentlemanly a manner as I knew how, said to him: "General, I am anxious to get into service and call to see if anything had been done regarding my appointment." His harsh speech and with haughty imperial manner, he said: "Sir, I have no time to hear what you wish to say. You will hear in due time of your appointment." I approached him and said it was immaterial to me sir, if you have no time to hear me, I will see your master, the president, and as I left his presence, gave his door such a bang as it probably never had before or since. I went and told Gen. Stevenson just what occurred. He said he very much regretted my action, and that (L. Thomas) he would never forget or forgive it. Allow me to state now that after the war I was quartermaster agent at Fort Boise, when commissioned as Bt. Major for efficient service in Sub. Dept., with request that I acknowledge its receipt, which I did. Folding the letter I indorsed it, John N. King, Bt. Maj. and Capt. C. S., acknowledges receipt of Bt. Com., and below, in middle, I wrote, "Dead" and drew a dirk, under which I wrote, "Killed by Lorenzo Thomas, adjutant general, in 1862." I then inked my finger and drew it around the paper, as if in mourning.

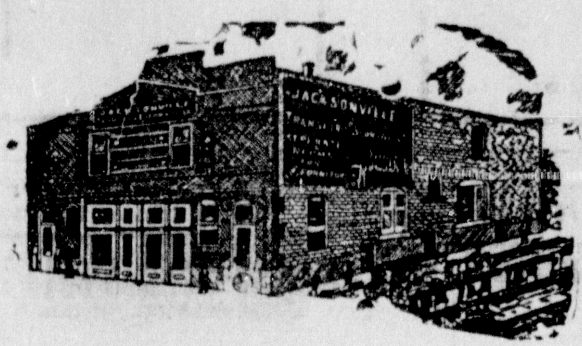

The Burnside expedition was in preparation for North Carolina and Gen. Burnside wanted me to go along. I told him I had no commission. He said, "No matter; go and get a staff uniform, report to me and I will assign you for duty on Gen. Parke's staff. Your commission will follow." My commission reached me in North Carolina and dated March 6, 1862, and made out as Capt. C. S. U. S. Vol., when in reality it should have been C. S. U. S. A. The generals of the expedition were named in rank. Gen. B. Comdy Foster, Reno and Parke, all West Pointers, and the three first named saw service in Mexico, whilst Parke was then at West Point.

Our first battle was Roanoke Island; the naval vessels attacking the main fort, under which Gen. Burnside was an observant witness. From the main fort was a light and low breast work extending across the island, and below this the three divisions were landed. The 1st and 2d were moved forward and Parke's held as reserves to await orders. Foster's division held the right and Reno's the left position. After fighting had continued for about two hours, as I judged, but may be mistaken, I asked Parke permission to go out for observation. He said, "Go and find Gen. Foster and learn if he had any orders for us." I found Gens. Foster and Reno, saluted Foster and said I had come from Parke to know he (Foster) had any orders for him. He replied, "Tell Gen. Parke that our forces are nearly out of ammunition and to bring his division up." This conversation was held near a clearing and as the generals left, as I think, for taking a position wherefrom they could see attack on main front, I went to the clearing and observed a battery of three guns. Returned to General Park, reported and we were on march to the front. As General Park was theoretically a fine officer, but had no war experience, and I had several years service under him, on survey for route for Pacific railroad and four years as quartermaster and com'y on N. W. Bdg. Dewey and when that service ended in 1860, he expected to get appointed brigadier general of volunteers, he exacted a promise from me, that if I received a staff appointment I would serve under him. This promise prevented the opportunity of accepting the proposition of General Stoneman's to the president to have me appointed as his quartermaster.

To Whom It May Concern:

After having doctored with several doctors in the city, without receiving any relief from a run-down condition due to nervousness and an erratic beating of the heart, I went to Dr. C. W. Carson, the Chicago Specialist, for treatment, in May, 1913.

After taking six monthly treatments, I find that I have gone from 103 pounds to 123 pounds in weight, and my heart beat is normal.

I now feel like my former self once again, due to Dr. Carson's treatment.

Agricultural News Valuable To Farmers

THE CORN BELTER

Edited by the Department of Publications, University of Illinois.

Regular Weekly Feature of the Jacksonville Journal

NUTRIMENT IN CROPS IS IMPORTANT FACTOR

THIS IS REAL MEASURE OF VALUE FROM DAIRYMAN'S STAND-POINT.

Corn and Alfalfa Ration Produces Best Results With Average Herd—Experiments at University of Illinois Show What Can Be Accomplished in Feeding Grainless Ration.

(By Wilbur J. Fraser, Professor of Dairy Farming, University of Illinois.)

The object of the dairy farmer, so far as the crop side of his work is concerned, should be to raise those crops that will produce the largest number of pounds of digestible nutrients per acre and at the same time make a palatable and well balanced ration for dairy cows. Most farmers give little thought to this real economic basis for determining which crop should be raised.

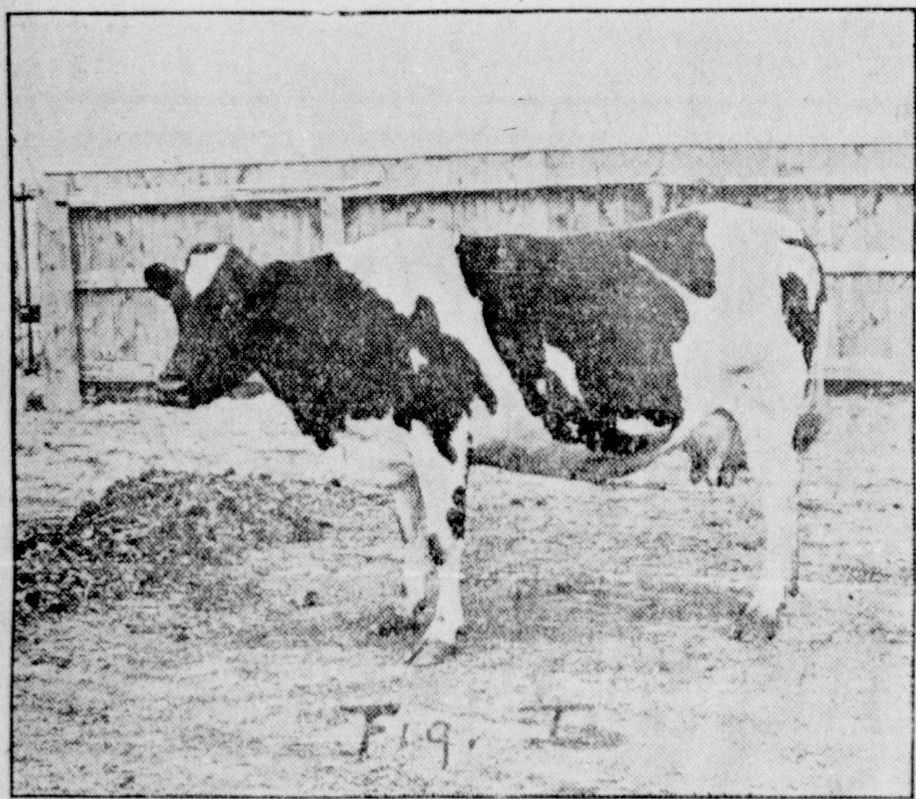

We are in the habit of thinking of the yield of crops in bushels or tons per acre, but as different crops have different weights per bushel, and as some are measured by tons, this gives no real basis for comparison. Again, the amount of digestible nutrients contained in a given weight of the different crops varies so greatly that even a comparison of the total dry weight tells little of the real feeding value of the different crops per acre. For this reason few people have an accurate idea of the comparative food value of the other value of being much more palatable and keeping the cow's system in better physical condition. For balancing a corn ration one acre of alfalfa is worth as much as ten acres of timothy.

Nutrient in Alfalfa.

A yield of four tons of alfalfa hay will furnish 4,400 pounds total digestible nutrients containing 450 pounds of digestible protein per acre; this is as much as is contained in an equal weight of bran. If every acre of alfalfa will save the purchase of four tons of bran or an equal amount of similar feed, it is not the growing of this crop worth considering? An acre of good corn will furnish 40 pounds of silage for a cow per day for 500 days, and an acre of alfalfa will furnish 16 pounds of hay for a cow per day for 500 days. This makes a good ration for a cow producing 22 pounds of milk per day or 7,000 pounds per year. This means that an acre of corn put into the silo and an acre of alfalfa made into hay will support a cow 500 days, or it will require only 1.37 acres of land to support a cow a year on a ration composed of these crops, while 1.37 acres of blue grass pasture will support the same cow only 78 days, or about one-fifth as long. This would indicate that on high priced tillable land, where it is desired to practice intensive methods, corn and alfalfa should be largely grown and that pasture acreage should be reduced to a minimum.

Magnificent Results With Dairy Cows.
To show the great value and economy of corn silage and alfalfa as feed for dairy cows the department of dairy husbandry fed twelve grade cows on a ration composed entirely of these feeds for periods varying from 18 months to over two years, no grain being fed during this time.

The above cow produced an average of over 33 lbs of milk per day for 3 months. She produced in one year 8,523 pounds of milk and 264 lbs. of butter fat. The following lactation period she produced an average of 35 lbs. of milk per day for 3 months. Her feed consisted of corn silage and alfalfa hay, no grain being fed during the 17 months these records were made. She had received no grain for over a year when this photo was taken.

various farm crops per acre for dairy cows. Yet the food producing power is the only real fundamental and determining which the dairyman should raise on his farm.

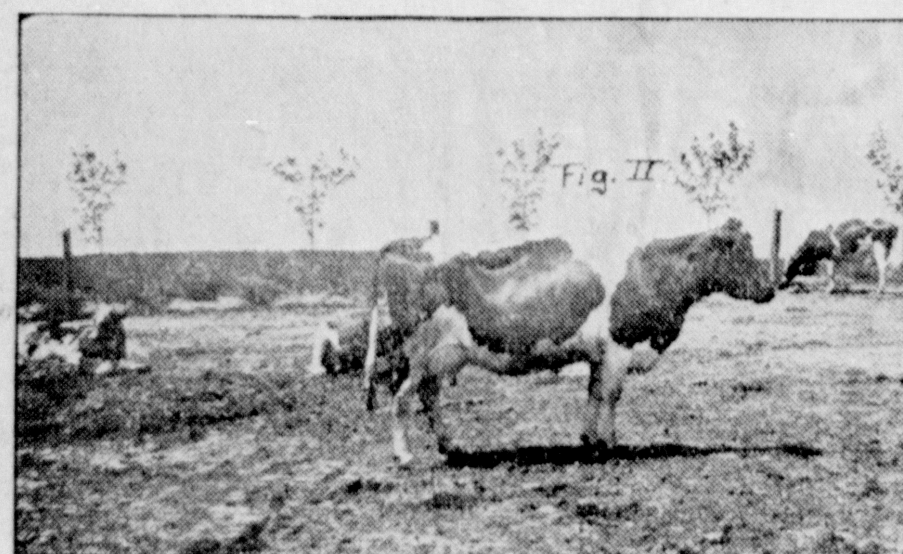

The Dairyman's Gold Mine.

On good, well drained land, corn and alfalfa will produce from two to four times as much digestible nutrients per acre as any of the other crops commonly raised on the farm, and in addition to this, are palatable and well adapted to the feeding of dairy cows. It is not necessary to encourage farmers of

The silage was made from fairly heavily eared corn.

The twelve cows averaged 8,523 pounds of milk and 260 pounds of butter fat for the year. The large production of these cows for so long a time and their fine sleek condition speak wonders for the economy and efficiency of these feeds for dairy cows.

The accompanying cuts show the condition of two of these grade cows after receiving no grain for over a year, the records having been made during that period.

The above cow produced an average of 33 pounds of milk per day for 3 months and 742 lbs. of milk and 259 lbs. of butter fat one year. The following lactation period she produced an average of 43 lbs. of milk per day for 3 months. Her feed consisted of corn silage and alfalfa hay, no grain being fed during the 15 months these records were made. She has received no grain for over a year when this photo was taken.

the central west to grow corn, as this is already grown extensively, but the serious difficulty with most dairymen is that they usually grow timothy hay, millet, or some crop of that kind to supplement the corn. The result is that corn, already high in carbohydrates, when supplemented with such a crop as timothy hay, necessitates the feeding and nearly always the purchase of large amounts of high priced feed rich in protein to balance the ration. Alfalfa produces over ten times as much digestible protein per acre as does timothy and has still an-

MORE CAST IRON PIPE USED FOR CULVERTS

RAILROAD DRAINAGE IDEAS BEING DUPLICATED ALONG HIGHWAYS.

Cast Pipe Has Some Advantages Over Other Materials—Does Not Deteriorate Quickly and Can Stand Shock—Three Tables Make Clear Some Important Points In Construction Work.

N. B. Garver, Associate in Civil Engineering, University of Illinois, says that cast iron pipe is used for culverts quite extensively by the railroad companies and may be used as acceptably on the highways. It has some advantages over corrugated iron or vitrified tile, due to the fact that it is not as easily damaged by shock as vitrified tile, and does not deteriorate so quickly by corrosion, as corrugated iron because of the greater thickness of metal. Also it is not as liable to damage by freezing.

The pipe should be laid carefully so there can be no settlement out of line. The bottom of the trench should be rounded out to fit the pipe, with suitable depressions for the bells. The pipe should not rest on rock, boulders or frozen pieces of earth. Where rock or boulder appear in the foundation, the excavation should extend six inches below the bottom of the pipe and this additional excavation should be replaced with sand or clay thoroughly tamped into place. The laying should begin at the down stream end with the bells up stream. The barrel of one section should be fitted into the bell of the other so that there will be no offset on the inside of the pipe at the joint, to collect trash and interfere with the flow of water. After the pipe is placed, the joints should be filled with a mortar made up of one part of cement to two of sand, care being exercised to remove any mortar that may pass through the joints and project on the inside.

The back filling should be done very carefully. The first few inches should preferably be of gravel or sand, and should be uniformly tamped in order to equalize the pressure against the pipe. No rocks or frozen earth should be placed in direct contact with the pipe.

The outlet should be so constructed as to carry the water away quickly.

The top surface of the pipe should be well protected from the wear and impact of traffic, and should never be less than 18 inches beneath the surface of the roadway.

Cast iron pipe may be obtained in 12 foot lengths, in 3 foot lengths, or it may be obtained in longitudinal sections to be bolted together in place. Some of the sectional pipe are of special design, having ribs cast on the outside surface in order to increase the ratio of strength to weight.

The price of cast iron pipe varies from 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents per pound, depending upon the condition of the market. The cost delivered at any railroad station may be obtained by adding to the above cost, the freight charge per pound from the factory to the station.

Table II. gives the standard sizes, thicknesses and weights for cast pipe as adopted by the American Waterworks Association, May 12, 1908. Only the light weight pipe is given, since that is the weight com-

POWDERED LEADS FOUND GOOD FOR SPRAYING

May Take the Place of Paste Arsenates—University Station Studies Injuries to Fruit and Foliage.

(By O. S. Watkins, University of Illinois, at the Horticultural meeting, 1913.)

A few years ago I made a statement saying that what we needed for spraying orchards was a powdered arsenate of lead that possessed all the desirable characteristics of the pastes. In response to such a call I received from several insecticide manufacturers replies to the effect that such a thing was impractical, and it was a surprise to them that such a statement should come from a station representative. It appeared for awhile that a satisfactory powdered lead was out of the question, as every one obtainable was tested and declared of little value as a wet spray. This past year a test was made of powdered lead called "Corona Dry," and the test proved efficient. It proved equally adhesive as the paste, and was very convenient to handle, and there was no loss due to evaporation as the season advanced. If such satisfactory results can be obtained in other years with the powdered leads as was accomplished this past season it begins to appear as though the days of the paste arsenates are numbered.

Jonathan trees experienced a very heavy drop about the first of September and it appeared for a while that practically the entire crop was going to drop. This drop checked about the 10th, and very few apples fell between then and picking time, which was 10 days later. Fortunately the station received no checks certain trees which were sprayed at any time during the season. All other conditions as regards treatment were the same. An examination of the drops under the checks and sprayed trees showed a remarkable condition. From a single unsprayed tree 2,325 apples fell during the first ten days of September; at picking time 230 apples remained to be picked. From another tree adjoining the check 203 apples fell; at picking time there were 1,800 apples picked. An examination of these drops showed them to be faulty, chiefly from the codling moth. It may be possible that the attacks of the green aphid so weakened the stems of the apples that they no longer were able to adhere to the tree, although I am unable to state definitely as to this. The aphid on the sprayed trees were controlled quite effectively by the use of "Blackleaf 40," a nicotine preparation which was supplied in connection with the materials used for the regular second application made immediately after the fall of the petals.

For a number of years the station has been making a study of injury to foliage and fruit, following the use of Bordeaux mixture, in an attempt to determine the cause of such injury, if possible, and find a remedy or means to avoid it. It was noticed that in our investigation wherever a hand pump was used with which to apply the material, there was practically no injury of any kind, while we frequently get injury in tests made from material applied with power sprayer. This led us to believe that the pressure at which the material was applied bore some relation to the extent of the injury, and to see if such was the case a test on a commercial scale on bearing Jonathan trees was made, with the results given in the following table.

Jonathan	Plat treatment	Appli- cation	Total	Codling moth pc. No.	Side, Calyx, Total	Season 1913. Rus. Crack.
9	Bordeaux arsenate, 1, 2, 3, 4	1, 2, 3, 4	5192	16	1	17
10	160 lb. pressure, 1, 2, 3, 4	1, 2, 3, 4	6460	14	4	16
10	Same	1, 2, 3, 4	5939	20	1	21
10	Same 190 lb. pressure, 1, 2, 3, 4	1, 2, 3, 4	5550	16	1	17
11	Same	1, 2, 3, 4	1007	26	4	39
11	225 lb pressure	1, 2, 3, 4	3157	20	2	22
12	Same	1, 2, 3, 4	3474	27	7	34
12	125 lb. pressure	1, 2, 3, 4	5800	20	6	26

The point of interest in this table is in the data under the heading of russet. A characteristic injury of bordeaux is the russeting of the fruit which makes it less marketable, if the injury is very severe. It will be seen from this table that bordeaux mixture applied at a pressure of 125 pounds caused no injury whatever, while all pressures above that caused considerable injury. The extremely high pressures do not seem to cause more severe injury than those around 160 pounds. The loss of fruit due to cracking is decidedly greater upon the trees receiving the higher pressures.

The question now comes up if low pressure is used, what about the claims of many advocates of very high pressure in controlling codling moth. This data together with that obtained in other years convinces me that the codling moth can be as effectively controlled under our Illinois conditions by 125 pound pressure as by 225 pound or even higher pressures. It is a question of thoroughness, I believe, rather than one of pressure.

INDIANA ORATORICAL CONTEST

IDEAL FARM HOUSE IS DIFFICULT TO PLAN

MANY POINTS MUST BE TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION.

Living Conditions More Varied Than Those Required for City or Suburban Residences—House and Surroundings Should Be Given Long Consideration Before Work Actually Begins.

(By J. K. T. Ekblaw, Associate in Farm Mechanics, University of Illinois.)

The planning of a house for the farm is not a task that can be passed over lightly and carelessly, not can it be left to a disinterested party if the best is to be obtained in attractiveness of style, solidity of construction and convenience of arrangement. The planning of a true home should be a labor of love, as indeed in the majority of instances it is; witness the throes of house-planning through which almost every young wedded pair go, whether a house results or not.

The problem of designing a farm house is more difficult than that encountered in the design of a suburban or city residence, mainly on account of different living conditions. The city dweller has markets at which he may purchase foodstuffs at almost any time of the year; he has libraries at which he may read; he has business houses in which he conducts his business; his employees are housed in their own homes. The farmer, however, must design a house that it will be not only his home, but a storehouse for supplies, a library for books, an office for his business headquarters, and more probably than not, a home for his workmen. It is thus that the problem becomes complicated, so complicated, in fact that only the greatest interest and care in design will produce a structure at once beautiful, substantial, convenient and economically efficient.

Once the building of a home has been decided upon, the owner should proceed to the collection of all possible material relating to the design and construction of the particular house he has in mind. The requirements as to size and space should be most carefully gone into, and very seldom would a mistake be made should the decision in these matters be left to the housewife herself, who is indeed the farm home forewoman, and who must in the house labor and contrive to keep a happy home, so essential to success. All the members of the family should contribute to this fund of material. If any particularly convenient device or a particularly happy arrangement is found in some other house, note should be made of it; a good plan book in a farm or home journal should be saved; suggestions, criticisms, ideas, whether good or bad, should be included. And then when the time to build approaches, put all this material into the hands of a good architect. A good architect is cheap at almost any price; he invariably saves, in an original design, the cost of his employment many times over, and his skill and knowledge will add many touches of beauty and refinement that would never occur to the mind of the owner himself. The architect can plan the more cleverly and the more to the satisfaction of his client, the more suggestions he can get from him, and the better he understands his client's desires. Many people consider the architect an unnecessary factor in residence design, but experience has shown and will ever show that he justifies his existence.

Special Room Requirements.

The special requirements of individual rooms in a house are many, and only a few can be noted here. Every farm house must have a kitchen, and it is perhaps the most important room in the house. A small kitchen is better than a large one, and a floor area of 150 square feet, with neither dimension less than 9 feet, will be found to be adequate in the great majority of cases; the more nearly square the kitchen is, the more efficient it will be in saving labor. It should have two exposures, if possible, avoiding a southern light; light and air are essential, and the windows should be located rather high, so that tables and the sink can be placed under them. A pantry is optional; if one is not provided, the kitchen should be supplied with ample cupboard room.

The farm house dining room must be extra large, to accommodate the extra men at times, such as threshing, haying, etc. It should be long, and 11 or 12 feet in width. Its exposure should be preferably to the east, though a west room with shaded windows gives good results. A living room of ample size should be provided, and this should have as many exposures as possible; two or even three exposures can usually be arranged without much trouble.

Some Other Home Needs.

Among special requirements for a farm house may be mentioned, an office, which may be used as a library; a wash room, in which women may leave their dirty clothes when coming in from work and where they may have an ample supply of hot water; plenty of porch space, both front and rear; and plenty of good bedrooms with a sufficiency of closet space.

It is assumed that an excellent site is provided, and that good trees and a well kept lawn are part of it.

HOW SOME ILLINOIS PIONEERS WON FAME AND FORTUNE

Anecdotes Related of Various Prominent Citizens of the State—Their Success Shows What Frugality Will Do.

(Are you an Illinois product? If so, have you an anecdote of the days when Illinois was young and your father or grandfather was fitting his own spirit to the Spirit of the Prairie in order to live and make life easier for you? Those were great old times and the men who met them were real square jawed, upstanding men—rugged, grim, both in sorrow and humor, quiet, deep of feeling, chaste, a little ferocious. If you can tell about your grandfather the winter of the big snow or how your grandmother outwitted the Indians, or how your Methodist preacher uncle won out in a horse trade, send it to the editor of the Corn Belter, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.)

It was David Simmons of McLean county, a hero of the battle of Stillman's Run, who on the eleventh of November, 1824, took to wife Elizabeth Jones. He was heir to a good constitution. His wife had had a sow, a spinning wheel, and a feather bed besides. And they took some of the feathers out of that bed and traded them for three knives and forks, thereby setting up in housekeeping! Trust love to find a way.

David Cox, who came to McLean county in 1826, was one of the early settlers who preferred to toil to the hunt. He said he hadn't much chance in the chase, as the deer always saw him first. One winter—the winter of the deep snow—the Cox family, like all the others, were put to it to live. They parched corn and ground it in a coffee mill and thanked the Lord that they, at least, were well fed!

Isaac Funk, notable farmer and breeder of an early day, accumulated a fortune of almost two million dollars and never kept an account book or a memorandum. His dwelling was one of the most celebrated of the early pioneers. It was a log cabin about 25 feet square and one story high, with a loft reached by a rude ladder. Here himself, his wife and little family of nine slept and all the wayfarers who were taken in from the road. Sometimes it was nearly full. A visitor from Kentucky thus describes the fireplace. "That which most attracted my attention was the immense fireplace which extended across the greater part of one side of the house. It had in it two or three logs some twenty feet long and two or three feet thick, and they made a fire large enough to roast an ox whole. No chairs were to be found in this mansion; but the hearth in front of the fireplace was very capacious and about eighteen inches lower than the parlor floor and this answered all the purposes of chairs. But it troubled my inquiring mind how Mr. Funk ever got those immense saw logs into his fireplace to burn. But he explained the matter. The doors on each side of the house were opposite each other, and with four yokes of oxen he hauled an end of a log as near one of these doors as it could be got by pulling it at right angles, then going with his oxen to the other side of the house, he passed a log chain from them in at one door clear across the house and out at the other door, where it was attached to the end of the log. Then the oxen pulled the log into the house end foremost, when it was an easy matter to roll it into the fireplace. A fire made by these logs would last from five to seven days."

KERNELS FROM KORN BELT

(By Sol E. Quizer.)

When the big rascal needs henchmen, then the little fellows can set their own price.

Pretension can deceive as long as it keeps silent. But a wind bag makes only one sound.

In the days when a fire meant as much thought and effort as in that log house of Isaac Funk's, a person would be mighty cautious about growing at the janitor every time his toes got a little cold.

Those sturdy old settlers of Illinois Ever strove for their state with no thought of fame; And surely, my friend, the least we can do is to pass it on as fair as it came.

LEWIS SALE POSTPONED.

On account of the weather I have postponed my sale from Friday, Feb. 27, to Thursday, March 5. John Lewis, R. F. D. 1, Woodson.

With a handsome house in a desirable location that has attractive surroundings, the farmer has something that makes farm life a great deal more agreeable and that adds to the value of his farm in a measure that cannot be estimated.

"Houses stand not for a month nor a year, but for generations; by them the thrift of a community is judged by them; the ideals and taste of a community are formed. He who deliberately builds an ugly house condemns himself as a poor citizen; while he who builds a beautiful house proves himself a good citizen, for his personal effort contributes to the public welfare."

WISE FARMERS PLAN NOW FOR SPRING WORK

EARLY CARE IN SELECTION OF CORN AND OAT SEED IMPORTANT.

This Matter Has Close Relationship to Later Success on the Farm—Improvements If Put Into Good Condition Will Save Time Later On.

(By Leonard Hegnauer, Professor of Crop Production, University of Illinois.)

The wide awake farmer is always ready when spring opens and is able to begin his work of the field with but a moment's warning, while his indifferent neighbor may need to spend days in getting ready to make a start. Some have imagined that there was a but little profit to the work that is done between crops and that the remunerative part of the farmer's year is restricted simply to the growing season. They have assumed that the growing season was the important part of the year, yet it is of no more importance than the time between seasons since this particular time should be used in getting ready for the work which is to follow. This is the time for the planning of the work to be done later on. A working plan should at least be made out, though it may need to be changed to meet new conditions as they may arise. There are so many things that must be done before one is ready to go to the field.

Care With Seed Corn.

In the later winter or early spring it is well to look over the seed corn which was very carefully selected from the field and stored away for safe keeping. Any ears which, by inspection, show that they are unfit for seed, should be discarded without further delay. Those ears which meet the requirements should then be arranged in some definite way and a germination test should be made with great care and should be very rigid. Unless seed corn is stronger in vitality it should not be used.

In making a germination test of seed corn, at least five or six kernels from each ear should be taken as a sample.

These kernels are taken from as many different parts of the ear, and will therefore be quite representative of the ear itself. If any weakness occurs, this ought to be determined by such a sample. It is not only desirable that these kernels should germinate, but it is also necessary that they should grow vigorously. If one or more kernels fail to grow the ear should be discarded. By eliminating the weak ears the germinating power of the general mass of the seed corn will be greatly increased. After the test is finished the corn should be gradually sacked and graded, the tip and butt kernels and any other irregular ones first being removed. A good grader may be helpful in getting uniformity of size and shape. It is a matter of importance to have the planter so arranged that a uniform drop may be secured. When the seed has been properly tested, there is no need of planting more than the number of kernels desired. It is poor policy to increase the number in each hill in order to get a good stand in case the vitality of the seed is somewhat impaired.

The Best of Oats Seed.

Before oats seedling time it would be well to take the seed oats which were selected at threshing time and clean them up thoroughly with the fanning mill and grader. If the weeds, chaff, dirt and small inferior oat grains are not removed with the first operation, the fanning and grading process should be continued until nothing but plump, heavy kernels remain. The grading and fanning process is a very important one in oats production. It costs but little to do this work and the returns on labor will be noticeable. After the oats are fanned, scatter them on the barn floor and treat the seed for smut.

It is found to be very profitable to treat oats for smut, especially when one considers that a field sown with untreated seed very frequently contains as much as ten to fifteen per cent, or even more, of smutted heads, while one sown with treated seed often contains less than one per cent. It is to be remembered that the per cent of smut in oats represents nearly the per cent of reduction in yield.

To treat oats for smut one pint of forty per cent formalin to forty gallons of water should be used. Mix the solution thoroughly until it is uniform, then with an ordinary garden sprinkler apply the solution to the oats and mix with a shovel. Enough of the liquid should be applied so that a film of moisture covers each kernel. Three or four quarts of the liquid will usually treat one bushel of seed. The treated oats should then be placed in a heap and covered with canvas or sacks. After two or three hours the heap should be uncovered and the oats scattered to dry. If the work is done immediately before sowing, the oats may be sown without drying. Care must be exercised, however, since oats are apt to swell on account of the moisture and this may interfere more or less with uniform sowing. It is usually better, therefore, to treat the oats and then let them dry before sowing time. Care should be taken in treating seed oats to see that they

STOCKS GATHER STRENGTH AFTER AN INDIFFERENT START

Erroneous Report From Mexico
Stimulates Market Temporarily—
New Haven Weakened by Washington Reports.

New York, Feb. 27.—After an indifferent start with little appearance of speculative interest on either side of the market, stocks gradually gathered strength today. In the last hour, important stocks as a rule sold a point or more above yesterday's close.

An erroneous report that the Mexican government had appealed to this country for assistance in restoring order stimulated the market temporarily.

New Haven was weakened by Washington reports of a hitch in the negotiations for dissolution of the system.

Northern Pacific's decrease in operating income last month was $503, decline in net.

RASH ON ARMS ITCHED AND BURNED

Especially at Night. At Times Got No Sleep At All. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

400 South Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill. — "I was attacked with a breaking out on the inside of my arms. It was a small rash or pimples and it itched and burned, especially at night, so that before I knew it I had made myself sore. I had to wear the finest kind of cotton underwear, no woolen at all, because the least thing irritated it and made it much worse. The rash itched and smarted until at times I got no sleep at all.

"I had this trouble and took treatments for about one year, but they only gave me relief while taking them. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got relief right away. I made a good strong lather of Cuticura Soap and washed myself every night and morning, drying myself with a good soft towel, and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In three months I was a well man again." (Signed) H. W. Foley, Nov. 5, 1912.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent dry, thin and falling hair, allay itching and irritation, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent washings with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, afford a most effective and economical treatment. A single set is often sufficient. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

For the Children

Prince Henry of England Tramping in the Hills.

© by American Press Association.

Royal princes look very much like ordinary folks when you don't know who they are. The boy in the picture is Prince Henry of England, third son of King George V. The prince is in his fourteenth year and, like all the children of the English ruler, he has been trained in a common sense way. Queen Mary is a rather strict disciplinarian and her boys are brought up much as are other English boys of good social standing. When Prince Henry was snapped by the camera man he was tramping with his brother, Prince George, who is two years younger. The picture was taken in the hills of Wales.

Tree Toad's Change of Colors.
A correspondent of Farm and Fireside has the following to say about tree toads:

"When a boy the writer often read of a wonderful animal, called a chameleon, which was said to have the power of taking the color of the object by which it was surrounded. But he never saw a chameleon and always felt a little 'Thomas like' in regard to its existence. However, he has since learned that there is an animal that has some of the powers attributed to the chameleon. That is the tree toad. Its life history is similar to that of the toads and frogs in the early stages.

"To show these various changes we took one that was found on an old board and placed it in a white pitcher. When placed in it the toad was a dingy brown, but after a few hours in the pitcher it was white with a slight creamy tint and with a few pale brown dots. On being placed in a window beside some green moss it soon took that color. Make the experiment of putting one in various colored locations and see the changes. You will be greatly interested."

A Writing Experiment.

The following is an entertaining experiment in a party of young people. One of those present is asked if he can write his name and will, of course, answer "Yes." He is then subjected to the following test: He is asked to sit down in a chair, a paper folded several times is placed on his forehead, a lead pencil is handed him, and he is asked to write his name on the paper. As little time as possible to reflect should be left him. If he hesitates he should be told to just go ahead, and in most cases it will be found that he starts writing his name at the left temple and to the amusement of the others present writes it so that it is legible only when held in front of a mirror unless one is practiced in reading reversed writing.

Queer Eating.

The king of horseshoe crab chews its food with its legs. This is an actual fact, the little animal grinding its morsels between its thighs before it passes them over to its mouth.

Rather Curious.

The frog, owing to its peculiar structure, cannot breathe with the mouth open, and if it were forcibly kept open the animal would die of suffocation.

Wash Day.

Put a dish tub—
Dolly's clothes in the tub.
I will wash them so clean and so sweet
While Dolly's in bed
With a pain in her head
And a hot water bag at her feet.

I know she'll be good.
She knows if I could
I'd soon have them nice and dry.
I'll work with a will
If she will keep still
And not worry me with a cry.

I really should take Time enough to make
Some pretty new clothes for the child.
It's really a shame.
I'm afraid I'm to blame.
And she's really so sweet and so mild.

So now, my poor dear,
I see it quite clear.
It's my duty to make you some clothes.
With the wash on the line
It will surely be fine
To sit and sew while you doze.

are not injured by freezing while damp. Carelessness on the part of the farmer may injure the seed at this point.

Have Implements Ready.
Another important item in getting ready for spring work is to see that all implements and tools are in good condition. Many farmers need to spend hours sometimes days, of the most valuable time early in the season getting their implements in shape for work, or even if they can be used, the work done is of such a questionable character that it may seriously affect the crop. A few days spent in the spring getting the plows, harrows, seeders, disks and corn planters in shape, will return large dividends on the investment. The number of days in the spring for any particular work is exceedingly limited.

Since most of the clover, at least in this state, is sown in the spring, some attention ought to be given to this matter. If clover is to be sown on winter wheat, arrangements should be made early in the spring to get the seed on at the proper time. In a favorable season clover seed could be sown after the ground is in fit condition to harrow, but usually by the time the ground reaches that condition the season will be too far advanced. Upon the average it will be much safer to sow the seed as early as February 1 and allow the light freezing and thawing the season of the year to cover the seed. This will give the clover a much earlier start and is usually the safer plan. If the clover is to be sown with oats, seeding, of course, can be done with one and the same operation.

The early part of the season is a most important time and no farmer can afford to neglect the opportunity of getting his crops started at the proper moment. To be ready and to do effective work are two very important things in producing good crops.

CORN SEED TEST IN IOWA SHOWS GOOD RESULTS

Investigation was Based on Grain Raised by 1,537 Different Farmers—Each Ear Should Be Tested.

An idea of the benefits from testing the germinating power of every ear of seed corn may be derived from tests made in Iowa. A very thorough investigation was made of the relation of the germination power to the yield of corn. Corn from 1,537 Iowa farmers was used in this investigation. It was found that the 153 samples of corn which germinated best, gave 78 per cent of a full stand and an average yield of 74 bushels per acre. The average for the entire 1,537 samples was 71 per cent of a stand and a yield of 62 bushels per acre. The lowest 153 samples gave 59 per cent of a stand and 43 bushels per acre. It is evident that the yield per acre was much lower with a poor stand than with a higher stand.

Test Each Ear.
The testing of each ear of corn gives one the certainty that all he plants will grow. This gives the best insurance against a deficient stand because of unfavorable weather or insect injuries, for corn which germinates strongly makes stronger and more productive stalks than that which is weak.

If one-quarter of the corn planted fails to grow, it will mean that one-quarter of the land in the field will be idle for the season. That means that on a 40 acre field one would waste all of the work and expense which he puts on 10 acres of it. He could better afford to have a full even stand on the other 30 acres and leave 20 acres idle rather than to have three-fourths of the stand on the 40 acres. It has been demonstrated that a hill which is missing does not make it possible for surrounding hills to be appreciably improved on account of the idle ground. In order to get an even stand we must know that every ear of corn we plant has good germinating power. The only way to be sure of this is to test it. We need to test enough of our seed corn now so as to know how much we need to buy, if necessary.

What's This, a Deadly Explosion? No, Clearing the Tracks in the West

This picture depicts a familiar scene on the railroads in the west during the dead of winter. Engine snow plows which bite into the huge snowdrifts and whirl the snow into a great cloud spend hours clearing the tracks. Miles of snow sheds protect the transcontinental railroads at most points in the mountains, but blizzards give the engine plows plenty of work in other parts, especially the cuts.

QUESTIONS ACCURACY OF STATEMENT.

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 24, 1914.

Editor Journal: I noticed in a recent issue of the Weekly Journal mention of an incident of long ago. In the letter of A. Bergen, as printed, he refers to a case in court in which Abraham Lincoln appeared as one of the counsel, and speaks of it as Selby vs. Dunlap, the suit growing out of the caning of Selby by the defendant.

Now I have always understood that the canning in that instance was done by Col. Warren instead of Col. Dunlap.

I remember very distinctly my father and mother returning home from Jacksonville one day and my mother telling of the caning of Paul Selby (then editor of the paper which afterward became the Journal) by Col. Warren. It occurred that day on the public square while they, my father and mother, were not far away.

From 57 to 69, except about 2 years, I lived in Jacksonville and knew very well, by sight, both Col. Warren and Col. Dunlap. That incident, so uncommon in Jacksonville, made a lasting impression on my mind and has always been connected with my recollection of Col. Warren—Query! Which was it?

Yours in the interest of history, J. W. Craig.

SEEKS TO BLACKMAIL WELL KNOWN CITIZENS

JACKSONVILLE YOUTH WRITES THREATENING DEMANDS FOR MONEY.

Caught at Place Where He Asked That $100 Be Left Would Be Desperado Makes Confession—Men Who Received Letters Stoutly Deny Intimations Made.

Jacksonville has had a real attempt at blackmail wherein a youth of twenty tried to obtain money from two well known citizens by letters containing threats of bodily violence and of exposure of alleged improper relations with a woman.

The young man was trapped and arrested, but was later released, the men refusing to prosecute and so without any court records, names cannot be given in this story.

The first citizen to receive a threatening letter took the missive to the Chief of Police Davis. In this letter the writer said that if $100 was not deposited under the steps at the entrance to Brook Mills by a certain hour, that vengeance would be his. Patrolman Baker of the police force was stationed in the mill building and about 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, as he watched through the window, he saw the young man approach the step and begin feeling underneath. An order "Throw up your hands" was obeyed and the youth then marched meekly away with the officer.

Youth Makes Confession.
At police headquarters he acknowledged having written one letter and said that he was inspired to take this method of getting some easy money, because he had seen the man to whom he addressed the letter, enter a certain house in the first ward accompanied by a woman, not his wife. The citizen addressed, however, says there is no truth in the story.

The receipt of a somewhat similar letter by another citizen was not reported to the police department until after the first case had been disposed of and the youth released, but the handwriting while somewhat disguised, is undoubtedly the same. A woman's name is mentioned in the second letter and is the same name that the young man gave when he confessed to Chief of Police Davis, at headquarters. In a written confession the culprit stated that he wrote the first letter mentioned that he was sorry he had done so and that he placed himself at the mercy of the man to whom the letter was addressed. This confession was made after Chief Davis had clearly outlined the penalty for the offense.

Undoubtedly the youth, who penned the letters has been reading a lot of Deadwood Dick kind of literature. Here is what he wrote, with names omitted.

The Threatening Letters.

Jacksonville, Ill., Feb. 24, 1914.
"Am leaving town and must have $100, so leave it under door-step leading to office of Brook Mill not later than Thursday evening, Feb. 26th. I have the goods on you. If you do not have the money you can get it. So do as I say and get away or you might get hurt. You are well thought of and a church man and if you do not do this I will write your wife and do you bodily harm, which will cost lots more."

P. S. If you don't come across, I will stay in town, write a letter to your friends, smash your good reputation and do you bodily harm."

Jacksonville, Ill., Feb. 25, 1914.
"Understanding thoroughly relations between you and Mrs. —, I think it is worth $25 to you to keep my mouth shut. Leave $25 under the steps leading to east entrance of the grocery store of Shanahan & Shanahan, east steps, on East street before Friday night at 7 o'clock Feb. 27, 1914. Otherwise I sure will expose you and ruin your business. Come across. I got the goods on you right, understand. Leave in money, no check goes."

The man to whom this letter was sent turned it over to Chief Davis and said that he had met the woman mentioned only a time or two and had only the most casual acquaintance with her.

GOV. DUNNE MAY TAKE PART IN SENATORIAL CONTEST

Springfield Register:
Coincident with the return of Governor Dunne to Springfield from a ten days' stay in Washington, where he conferred with President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, Senator Lewis and other party leaders, comes the information from a source close to the governor that an announcement will be made by the executive later on in the senatorial campaign which will set at rest all doubt regarding the governor's position in the fight. It is reported that the governor will come out in support of the candidacy of a down state man for the democratic nomination for senator—a man who, up to the present time, has not figured in the senatorial scrap.

Before leaving Chicago last night for this city Governor Dunne made the positive statement that he would not be a candidate for senator, thereby disposing of rumors current during the past few days in which the governor's name was used in this connection.

GIVEN CHARIVARI.
Emerson Lewis and Miss Jesse Williams who were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Williams, 330 Hackett avenue, were treated to a good old fashioned charivari the evening of the ceremony by a number of their friends. Refreshments were served including candy and cigars by Mrs. Williams who took the noise and racket without offense, invited the young people in and gave them a warm welcome.

SAVE OFFICER'S LIFE.
Hutchinson, Kans., Feb. 27.—Jesse Dawson and Jesse Blank, prisoners today saved the life of Officer Sherman Monroe at the Kansas State Reformatory when Charles Church, an inmate attacked Monroe with a pitchfork.

SMOKERS MAY BE BARRED.
Chicago, Feb. 27.—Smoking on street cars will be abolished if an ordinance recommended today by the health committee is adopted by the city council. The proposed law carries a penalty of from $1 to $10.

DECLINES TO DISCUSS SITUATION.
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—When Governor Dunne returned to his office today after conferring with Secretary of State Bryan and others in Washington, he declined to discuss the Illinois senatorial situation except that he was not a candidate.

AT THE GRAND.

"Within the Law" Bayard Veiller's play presented by Selwyn & Co., was well received last evening at the Grand Opera House by a fair sized audience. The play deals with conditions in New York city at the present time and M. Veillard's portrayal of the life tragedy of the under-paid working girl who applied the methods of "big business" in the under-world deserves a place alongside the slavery tales of other days such as the war time story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The author knew his text and has revealed his grasp of dramatic art in the human story of wayward "Mary Turner." As a minister said who witnessed the production, "All employers of labor who underpay their women employees, should go to see this play for the lesson it will teach them."

The great popularity of this production is attested by the fact that there are now eight or ten companies playing it in different parts of the country. Jacksonville had the organization which has been appearing in the larger cities of Illinois and nearby states and a splendid balanced cast it is. The leading actors do not shine because of the mediocrity of their associates but from their own ability.

"Within the Law" is so intense, so dramatic, that presented by a poor cast it would be a dismal failure. The fact that the audience last night was held in attention to the very point of breathlessness is the strongest testimony of the quality of the playing. The opera house management certainly gave Jacksonville a high class attraction last night."

NEW LAUNDRY FOR BARR ON WEST COURT STREET

Joseph DeGoveia Will Erect $4,000 Building on Former Schlitz Brewing Co. Property—Mr. Barr Expects to Move By May 1.

O. N. Barr, who for the past six years has conducted a laundry business at 217 West Morgan street, will move his establishment soon into a building at the corner of West Court street and Broadway alley, to be erected by Joseph DeGoveia. The property was recently acquired by Mr. Goveia from the Schlitz Brewing Co., and the new building when completed will be leased to Mr. Barr for a number of years. Mr. Goveia expects to have the new laundry ready for occupation by the first of May.

The plant will be of brick and will have a sixty foot front with a depth of sixty-five feet. The building will cost approximately $4,000, will be of brick and concrete, and will be a modern structure in every respect. There will be windows on all sides, a front almost wholly of glass and four large sky-lights in the middle of the building. It will be constructed so that a second story may be added if desired.

A free lecture on Christian Science at I. O. O. F. Temple on East State Street, Sunday, March 1st, 3 o'clock p. m. The public cordially invited.

MATRIMONIAL

Beerup-Rogers.

Mr. Audie Beerup and Miss Lola Rogers were married at 1:30 o'clock at the court house Friday, Judge E. P. Brockhouse officiating. The marriage was witnessed by the mothers of the young people.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers of Waverly and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Beerup of Franklin. Both young people come from well known Morgan county families. They expect to make their home in Franklin where the groom is engaged as a barber.

HAS ANTIQUE CLOCK.

Carl O'Neal of 519 Myrtle street was exhibiting a wooden clock yesterday which excited the curiosity of many by reason of its age and oddity of design. The clock is hand carved, face, coars, escapement and all, and the motive power is supplied by the slow unwinding of a weight. On its face is carved a bust of Christopher Columbus and the inscription reads "Columbus" and below this, "Anno 1492." Although the clock may not be as old as the inscription might imply, antiquarians who have examined it say that it can be no less than 200 years old and is probably of greater age.

Mr. O'Neal has had the clock in his possession since last September. He bought it from a dealer in Princeville, Ill., who in turn obtained it from a jeweler named Bliss. Mr. Bliss bought it from a peddler about thirty years ago who was passing through Princeville on his way to Chicago.

"ROMANCE" IS COMING BIG ATTRACTION AT THE GRAND

Harry Askin, Well Known Theatrical Manager Here to Arrange for March 4th Presentation—Jacksonville Gets Date Because of Quarantine at Urbana.

Harry Askin of LaSalle Theatre fame and owner of highly successful comedy productions was in the city yesterday arranging for the appearance of "Romance" at the Grand Opera house next Wednesday, March 4th. The show was booked for Urbana on that date but because of the quarantine there a change was necessary and Jacksonville is fortunate in being the city. Manager Boyd of the Grand has reason to feel that he is going to offer one of the most successful plays of recent seasons.

"Romance" had a long Chicago run with Dorris Keene in the stellar role and while she is not with the company now a successor entirely worthy has been secured, Miss Gertrude Morrisini, formerly of David Belasco's forces. Others in the cast are actors of reputation and the company as a whole is of the kind that Charles Dillingham has the name of backing.

J. H. S. plays today at 1 o'clock. See them.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The executive board of the Twentieth District Federation of Woman's clubs were entertained Friday by Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson, the vice-president for Morgan county. A business session was held in the morning at the home of Mrs. Pierson on East State street and the ladies adjourned at half past one to the Peacock Inn where there was served a delicious luncheon of three courses on tables decorated with red roses. The transaction of further business and a social hour occupied the afternoon at Mrs. Pierson's home. The annual Twentieth District convention for the Federation of Woman's clubs will be held May 19-20, and plans for the program formed the chief theme of discussion at the executive board meeting yesterday. The membership of the executive board includes the officers of the Twentieth Congressional district and the vice-presidents of each of the ten counties therein.

The guests at the luncheon were Mrs. C. E. Smoot, Mrs. George Luther, Mrs. Gaines Greene, Petersburg; Mrs. Eugenia R. Curry, Mt. Sterling; Mrs. J. H. Mallott, Jerseyville; Miss Ada Glenn, Ashland; Mrs. Edgar Glandon, Pittsfield; Miss Annie Hinrichsen and Mrs. Albyn L. Adams.
